

ANGELA BARRAZA, CFRE
Consulting Projects Manager

From a young age, Angela Barraza had a passion for helping people and knew her life's work would be focused on serving the community – both close at home and around the world. With her commitment to nonprofit organizations and enthusiasm for philanthropy, Angela enjoys partnering with staff and volunteers to ensure the success of their organizational goals.

Angela brings more than a decade of nonprofit program management and development experience to Dini Partners. Having worked for a variety of nonprofits in the higher education, religious, and human services arenas, she keenly understands that each nonprofit organization has a unique set of strengths and faces an array of challenges. Before joining Dini Partners, Angela worked in development at Texas CASA for nearly four years, securing necessary financial support for the organization, as well as providing development training, technical assistance, and consulting services to the network of more than 60 local CASA programs around the state.

Angela is a proud alumna of Southwestern University in Georgetown, where she earned her bachelor's degree in Religion with a minor in Sociology. In her free time, Angela enjoys spending time with her family and friends, speaking Spanish, and traveling.
