

SALLY BLUE
Consultant

From the mountains of Guatemala, where she worked with a grass-roots education-based project to the mountains of North Carolina, where she served the Girl Scouts as Interim Executive Director, Sally Blue brings both front-line and management experience in organizational and resource development, strategic planning, and coaching.

Sally is a native Texan, growing up in Pearsall and attending Incarnate Word High School in San Antonio. Through her work at Bryn Mawr College in Peace and Conflict Studies focused in Latin America and at Emory University earning a Master of Theological Studies focused on community cultivation, she has honed a talent for uncovering underlying issues and finding patterns in complexity. Sally has also worked with the Girl Scouts-Lone Star Council and at Family Eldercare, both in Austin, Texas. Utilizing her wide range of education and experience, Sally has been a part of the Dini Partners team since early 2006. She feels privileged to partner with our clients and the important work they do in our community.

Outside of the office, Sally and her husband enjoy trying to keep up with their young daughter Ruby, poetry, and the quest for the perfect homemade pizza. Sally volunteers with Emancipet; Urban Patchwork, a nonprofit experiment in urban farming; and is a member of the Association of Fundraising Professionals.
