Principal and Partner

Bob Corder was recruited to join R. F. Dini & Associates (today Dini Partners) in the late 1970s, having served on the communications and advancement staffs at the University of Oklahoma and Baylor College of Medicine and as a broadcast journalist in Oklahoma City. His 30-year consulting career with Dini Partners has focused on the planning and implementation of major gifts campaigns, executive coaching for nonprofit leaders and their volunteer boards, and counseling for senior development officers.

Bob's clients include private and public universities, many of the region's premier independent schools, major health care systems, performing arts institutions, museums, and national youth organizations. Cumulatively, his clients have raised more than $2 billion.

Bob served as the firm's president and chief executive officer for nearly 20 years, working with his partners to move the company beyond its respected regional reputation in Texas, and establishing the firm as an admired industry leader with a national client base.

He has been a well-known speaker for the Association for Health Care Philanthropy (AHP), the Association for Fundraising Professionals (AFP), and the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). Bob has served as chairman of the AFP Foundation for Philanthropy, as president of the Association for Community Broadcasting – PBS and NPR – in Houston, and as a trustee for the Greater Houston Community Foundation.

Today, Bob maintains residences in Houston and Denver, and continues to serve clients throughout Texas and the Rocky Mountain West.
