

DEACON LARRY A. VACLAVIK
Managing Partner

With the mind of a philosopher and the heart of a minister, Larry Vaclavik is known for his high energy, unrelenting enthusiasm, and comprehensive experience with nonprofit organizations and capital campaigns. As a leader, strategist, and problem solver, Larry firmly believes in empowering organizations to fulfill their missions by helping them to extend and expand their own capabilities. Larry carefully explores, listens, and learns the unique history, culture, and needs of each organization he counsels before developing effective solutions tailored to the organization's special circumstances.

Personal faith serves as a driving force behind Larry's tireless dedication to his clients and his commitment to servant leadership. Having earned undergraduate degrees in pastoral theology and philosophy at the University of St. Thomas, Larry received master's degrees in philosophy and theology from The Catholic University of America and the University of St. Thomas, respectively. He served in the development offices of the University of St. Thomas and the University of Texas Health Science Center. An ordained deacon in the Catholic Church, Larry is actively involved in his church at the diocesan and parish levels.

"I do this kind of work because I believe in the inherent goodness and nobility of human beings," he says. "We have been created to do great things for others. This goodness can be seen in both the generosity of philanthropists and the skills of those who serve for the benefit of others."
